LIGHTS, CLIVEDEN, ACTION

Society's finest gathered in the foyer of Cliveden House to see the luxury hotel lit up in true festive style. The Queen's cousin Lord Ivar Mountbatten and ex-Spandau Ballet singer Tony Hadley and wife Alison Evers were among the stars watching as socialite Alice Naylor-Leyland switched on the lights of the Christmas tree festooned with Halcyon Days baubles. The Berkshire venue, where the Duchess of Sussex stayed on the eve of her wedding, is a family favourite for Tony. "Alison and I love to visit with our kids," he told HELLO!.

A TASTE OF ITALY FOR FESTIVE FOLK

Celebrities got a taste of la dolce vita as hip London eatery Fucina kicked off the party season in style with its Festa Italiana. Jack Brooksbank, the new husband of Princess Eugenie, model Portia Freeman and DJ Zara Martin were among the revellers enjoying decadent treats with an Italian flavour, from fig and black pepper negronis to panettone ice cream, in a stunning winter wonderland, comprising poinsettias and glittering baubles amid lush faux firs and asparagus ferns. ▶
